

REPORT OF FOREXPO FAIR IN 2021

Due to uncertainties linked to sanitary quarantine, Forexpo organizers have decided to postpone the 26th edition of the European forestry and logging fair on June 16, 17 and 18, 2021 in Mimizan (40).

The theme remains unchanged, devoted to innovation in forestry and logging and more specifically, for this edition, to the wood professions which alone account for 440 000 jobs in France.

Scheduled initially from June 17 to 19, 2020, the quadrennial Forexpo fair is finally postponed in one year. The current quarantine gives no visibility on the return to normal and the economic situation of the coming months will not allow exhibitors to prepare the fair or even to mobilize equipment.

The theme of this 26th edition, in 2021, will remain linked to the wood professions and training with the particular objective of inviting middle and high schools to raise awareness of employment prospects in the sector and career development.

The 400 exhibitors, who are used to participate to this major sector meeting, can now reserve their stand on the 3 km loop, which constitutes the circuit of visit to Mimizan (40), in the heart of the biggest cultivated forest.

Forexpo is the European exhibition fair for forestry and logging created in 1962. It takes place since 2012 in the heart of the Landes de Gascogne, in Mimizan.
